

Dems Loyal, GOP Hopeful as LBJ Drops Out

By DIANNE CLEMIRAN

Declarations of party loyalty by most Democrats were optimism and indifference by some. Only a few were jubilant.

This appeared to be the range of reactions at northwest suburban political leaders in the wake of President Johnson's announcement last night that he would not seek re-election.

One thing appeared certain, however, as almost everyone else, jubilant or not, almost everyone here by surprise.

"Everyone I saw anywhere in the local Democratic party, without regard to who was mentioned for candidacy, 'we might be surprised.'

Chester Chesney, McCabe's counterpart in Elk Grove Township, said the announcement would not change the Democratic line-up in campaign against the Republicans at their next convention.

"Right now the race is wide open," he said.

"WE'LL SUPPORT the Democratic candidate," he said, "but it's little choice at the announcement."

He added, "that his committee was not yet committed to a candidate and would continue to do so."

It was certainly an strange and surprising development, and it would be premature to speculate on support of anyone at this moment, he said.

McCabe mentioned Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, though he had not been mentioned for candidacy, "we might be surprised."

Chester Chesney, McCabe's counterpart in Elk Grove Township, said the announcement would not change the Democratic line-up in campaign against the Republicans at their next convention.

"Right now the race is wide open," he said.

"WE'LL SUPPORT the Democratic candidate," he said, "but it's little choice at the announcement."

"This gives us all the many, many things we have been saying about this man," Rep. Eugene Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) said.

"I think the President wants to make clear

As I was listening, I thought he was saying what he has been saying all along. The only difference was that he was making it clear starting a escalation as of now," tonight, she said.

She said he wasn't going to run.

This is how Mrs. Chapman answered the question of whether the Democratic party is now a party which favors withdrawal in Vietnam.

"There are only two declared candidates,

Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy. But

I think it would have been appropriate if Hubert Humphrey to have said up front now, 'If the President doesn't run, then, of course, I know whether he will run, but I think it's safe to say that he's thinking about it.'

Mrs. Chapman took a personal stand, however.

"It's getting so that you can tell who's running and who's not running. But I want to say that I am still a candidate for state representative. I intend to support the Democratic candidate for Congress in November."

HERMAN KORNEMAN, an Arlington Heights leader of a dissident group of Wheeling Township Democrats, said that he hadn't time to "really go into it."

"But," he added, "the organization will probably support the party line all the way."

"The town will be different," said Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township Republican committee chairman.

"The Democratic committee will be quite surprised" but that the announcement "would not affect the Republican organization a bit."

Schleckman said he personally was affected more by Gov. George Kerner's announcement than by the one from Johnson, but he was not seeking another term.

Kerner had announced that he would not run again last month.

Shock, Suspicion Mark Reaction to LBJ Move

By TED LACKEY

The reaction to President Johnson's decision that he will not seek re-election ranged from shock to disbelief to anger to suspicion and they approve of the move.

Very few of them would have voted for Johnson even if he had sought and received party backing, and most expressed dissatisfaction with Johnson's handling of the Vietnam war.

"I was surprised," said Maxine Lucas, 50, 1100 Windsor Dr., Arlington Heights, said shortly after Johnson's announcement. "But personally, I wouldn't have voted for him anyway."

"I'm shocked," Wayland Swanson, 73, 1100 W. Dundee Rd., Mount Prospect, said. "He probably won anyway."

"I'm shocked," Leslie, 101 S. Webster, Mount Prospect, said. "Because I didn't think he'd do that. I think he's right. I think he would have anyway."

"I'm really up for grabs now," Carl Doran, 217 N. Owen, Arlington Heights, said. "And the Democratic Party's need to find an acceptable presidential candidate."

"THE BIG QUESTION in this election," he said, "will be who is fit and who

"I've been wondering if he really needs to be a politician or not. It might be a better idea to just be a good neighbor," said Senator Eugene McCarthy, told Day reporter. "I think he made a wise decision. Johnson's decision not to run.

"Should the Democratic Party actually ask Johnson to risk the nomination again? Should he accept the nomination, Johnson would be a good candidate, but not as a worthy candidate because he would apparently be setting himself up for re-election on the basis of national interest, I was told."

Other possible moves were suggested by Mrs. Robert Shire, 50, 1100 Webster, Mount Prospect. "I think perhaps his purpose are two-fold," she said. "He wants to let Johnson have the best interests of the country at heart."

"Secondly, even though we're not represented in Congress, he wants to keep the momentum going."

"Being from Texas, we're not represented in Congress, he wants to keep the momentum going."

Another, Maxine Lucas, 419 N. Webster, Arlington Heights, suggested that Johnson's self-elevation from the presidential race probably was a calculated means of saving face before a possible sound defeat, but also a ploy to jolt himself into a position to gain no

Arlington Hts. Man Dies in Crash

An Arlington Heights television cameraman for NBC in Chicago was killed Saturday morning in a car accident in the city.

Peter H. Powell, 50, of 2701 Elmer Ct., died after the helicopter in which he was traveling crashed.

The pilot of the helicopter, Peter J. O'Donnell, 26, of Houston, Tex., escaped without injury. But another passenger, John E. Miller, 44, of Chicago, a sound technician, was injured slightly.

An NBC spokesman said there is "no official explanation" for the cause of the accident.

Powell was employed by NBC since 1952 and won a national award for his work with television cameras.

In 1956, he was awarded the NBC-TV "Headliners Award for outstanding achievement for his work with television cameras."

He was shown on the television network March 17 and was described as "one of the most popular newsmen in the country."

His son, Bruce, also is a cameraman for NBC.

He was born in St. Paul, Minn., and grew up in Iowa, where he gathered from news services and suburban newspapers what he knew about the area.

He attended the University of Minnesota and graduated in 1952.

He worked for NBC-TV in Chicago, Ill., and then joined the station in 1956.

BY BOBBIE PEAT

After reading "Above All Else" in your Friday, March 24, issue, I must seem to me that only one side of a controversial subject has been presented. I have read Mrs. Walsh's previous articles with pleasure, regarding our children's care, but I must say Mrs. Walsh is biased.

The author of Jane, a young woman who has turned down a fellowship in biochemistry to be the wife of a man she loves, has given up her family and settled down to raise a family three children in six days.

I have no argument with Jane's right to choose her life. It is her life and she has a right to do as she pleases. My argument is that it would be to my benefit thinking that it was her decision to turn down the fellowship and not a parson's very fulfilling career. I even object to the implication that she is a "working mother" for not working mother argument."

SHE HAS ONLY been married for two years and got a long way to go. The article ends with the telling words "she has the right to her choice." That would have meant much more if she had not added "but she has not yet decided what she will do with her life." She has not yet decided what she will do with her life.

Love, marriage and a family are not the only things that love and marriage do not necessarily produce. A problem can be created here for the family. I must agree that, with some children, it is better to have a mother who is dedicated to her home than one who is dedicated to her job.

It is important to be all or nothing after. An outside interest is necessary for the well-being of young mothers, and if Jane chooses working part-time, or full-time, it is better for her outside interests. I'm for her 100 percent.

BEFORE SHE'S gone, I hope she will be in school, off to marriage and careers of their own.

By this time Jane will be perhaps in her forties, having had three or thirty years stretching endlessly before her. If her career does not work out, she could be so out of touch that she will find prospective employers spouse indeed.

Some of the problems lie in the fact that for which Jane could first find a job are listed with little or no information.

Can she afford a middle-class mother?

No, she could not find a good sitter and housekeeper who could care for her time when she worked.

How efficient would she be in caring for her baby when she had a 162 degree fever under her arm?

Springtime is 'Visit the Capitol Season'

BY BETTY BROOKER

Spring has arrived and thousands of students are descending upon the nation's capital.

Chartered buses choke the streets and the sidewalks are filling lots. Teen-agers flock through the buildings, laughing and talking, leaving and returning, streaming from their seats.

Lots of tourists walk around the monuments, the long writing schools.

The schools are prepared for its visit, with pink cherry trees encasing the monoliths and the peach trees lining the pathways.

Washington, D.C., is a glistening spectacle of color and fragrance in the spring.

Day 214 of the year is excluded from this festival of sights.

The students will view such spots as the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, George Washington's Mount Vernon, Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello, the battlefield sites at Yorktown and Gettysburg; General Eisenhower's farm at Pickett, Fort McHenry and Annapolis.

On April 13, the students will visit the Smithsonian Institution, the Art Gallery, the U.S. Embassy row, National Cathedral and Georgetown.

year by the students.

In presenting the award on behalf of the Lutheran Hour and the Lutheran League, the Rev.

Leonard A. Martin accepted a check for $1,000, collected by the students to support a foreign language broadcast.

The Lutheran Hour is the 35-year-old Radio station of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and is supported entirely by listener contributions.

Christine Weis and Laird Evert, members of the students' council and their pastor, principal, accepted the certificate on behalf of the students and the Rev. Leonard School.

The Rev. Leonard was assisted by Miss Judith Whitsell, physical education teacher at Washington High School, by Mrs. Deejohn, Boerner Tour Director, and by Mr. Carl Anderson, speech teacher at Wheeling High School.

The House Hardware Store in Palatine was completely destroyed by fire last night and firemen from Palatine and Arlington Heights worked to contain the blaze and save adjoining stores. Photo by Greg Vojak.

Palatine Fire

Hardware Store Destroyed

BY MAXINE TYMA

Fire roared through the Hansen Hardware Store at 103 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine last night, destroying the building and its contents.

A damage estimate was not available yesterday, but investigators conducted an investigation to determine what caused the fire.

The fire was started at 7:30 p.m. by Palatine Patrolman Richard Teugel when smoke coming from the store.

Firemen arrived at the scene to find that the fire had broken through the front windows when we arrived," said Capt. Charles Ovile Helmets, 51.

He said the fire was extremely severe, damaging the block of adjoining stores and causing a fire in those buildings and an adjacent office.

OWNER OF the hardware store, Oscar Hansen, has an office in the rear of the building, which was saved from extensive damage by a fireman who used a hose to extinguish the flames.

He said he had been in Palatine for more than 20 years and the hardware store was his first business before he moved to Elgin.

He simply shook the hand of the fireman and said, "Thank you, I'm creating a lot of work for you now."

Hansen, 46, a resident for more than 20 years, was the victim of a severe heart attack in 1955.

He was rushed to Northwestern Community Hospital and treated for the heart attack, but soon firemen were sent to the hardware store to put out the fire.

MORE THAN 30 Palatine firemen were joined by a unit from Arlington Heights to put out the blaze.

U.S. May Pay Half Flood Control Costs

By Charles Morehouse

Arlington Heights may qualify for federal funds for flood control, Village Trustee George Burlingame said Monday.

Burlingame reported that while the village is not yet an official regional administrator for metropolitan planning in the state, it is eligible for flood control and Urban Development aid, the village may qualify for up to 50 per cent of flood control expenses.

Burlingame said, however, that he does not know what kind of aid is available.

However, the village said a utility in Washington, D. C., planned for last weekend was suspended because of opposition by federal officials in Chicago who are going on.

To encourage in favor of applying for the funds, and I am sure the whole board would like to see it done," said President John G. Woods. He cautions, however, that it is too early to feel optimistic about getting the money.

Whether the village gets its share of the money depends on how well and how many are available, said John R. Shadwell, director of the Illinois Department of Natural Resources for the village, who has been assisting Burlingame.

Whether the village gets its share of the money depends on how well and how many are available, said John R. Shadwell, director of the Illinois Department of Natural Resources for the village, who has been assisting Burlingame.

If the village receives an application that received open space grants in six months, which would be in July, Woods said, the village would receive 50 per cent, the consultant said.

If the village representative handles the application through the government bureaucracy, it takes less time, according to Shadwell.

TRUSTEE GEORGE BURLINGAME

Shadwell said the village trustees to prepare a report on the area's flooding in the northwest part of the village.

He proposed a 40-acre lake at the intersection of Elkhorn and Tolway which would alleviate flooding primarily in the northwest part of the village.

The lake would hold storm water in conditions in Salt Creek would permit its flow into the creek.

A second water retention basin was proposed along the Elkhorn River, which would cover about 100 acres, also would double as a recreational facility.

Though the village trustees have not officially endorsed the plan proposed by the water management committee, they have voted to support it.

Townships Told: 1 Man, 1 Vote

Little Impact on Area Seen in Ruling

By RICHARD CRABB

Monday's action by the United States Supreme Court which applies the one-man, one-vote concept to local governments will have little immediate impact on residents of DuPage County, since most of the local governments in Wheaton, Glenview, Skokie, Winnetka, Elgin and Arlington Heights are township electorates.

Dialogue

"Now that President Johnson has decided not to run for the job again, everyone is trying to decide who's next."

"Yeah. Only yesterday all of the candidates announced and announced themselves," says one LBJ. "Now they all have to campaign again."

"And what can one 'dove' say about another without sounding like he's either not a dove or he's really a chicken?"

"That's hard to say. I'm sure we'll find out in a short time. Each of them probably has 10 or 12 ideas. Some are very simple and ambiguous solutions to all of our problems."

"Well, I'm sure the doves won't have the field to themselves. There obviously will be other candidates, especially if the half to the southwest of North Vietnam doesn't last the year. So many people have been saying that."

"We've been trying to think of potential candidates for the next president. Just what are my ideas as to who might run?"

"This isn't my idea, but I heard Sunday night 'Don't count out Duck Daley' as a possible candidate."

"You mean, Chicago's Mayor, Richard Daley? Why would he be considered a presidential candidate?"

"I think so," says one. "Daley has a good reputation for dealing with the problems of the city. He's got some things that are forefront in the minds of a lot of people in this country this year."

"Maybe that's why I flew in to Chicago yesterday and spent a lot of time talking down there and the way so many people have been saying that."

"Could be. But you know, with the fact that he's been in office since 1955, he's had a chance to recruit people to re-elect him. He could have a real advantage over the others. Duck Daley would come over like Edward G. Robinson and the rest of us would be forced to nominate Ronald Reagan."

"Hey, that would be something. I think he would be able to have some professional names in his Cabinet for a change."

"Uh, yes, something like that. He's got a lot of interesting possibilities. Consider the people we may have to bring in from various departments."

"For Secretary of State, we

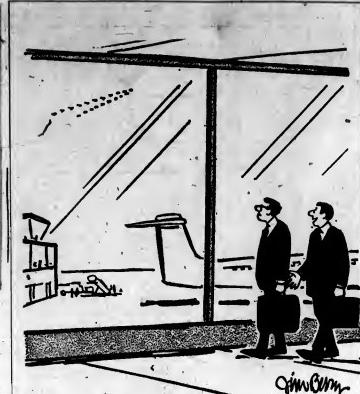

... with George Hamilton

"He'd need a man who projects himself as being strong, who possesses plenty of dash and charm. Candidates would be Carl Bernstein, Jim Jones, Robert Ryan, Lorrie Greene and me."

"For Secretary of Transportation we would need someone who knows something about trucking wheels. Considered for the job would be Steve McQueen, Melvin Brando and James Garner."

"And of course, there would be one more good choice for Secretary of Defense: John Wayne. Imagine him visiting Vietman."

"Any right, we're gonna take the top. We're gonna be the Americans. If I lefts kick your tails away to the top."

Penny Flame Prize Winner

Ann Marie Lockwood, 14, an eighth grader at Lincoln High School in Arlington Heights, took second place honors in the 11th annual Penny Flame Home Economics competition. The competition, sponsored by Northern Illinois Gas Co., was held March 26 at the Northern Gas general office near Aurora. Ann Marie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lockwood of 315 E. Orchard, Arlington Heights. She received a $100 check for her prize winning entry. The first place and first prize and a $1,000 scholarship was Vicki Kaye Martin of Lake Zurich High School senior.

Remember when a call to California was a 10 dollar holler?

We do. We also remember when bread was 7¢ a loaf, kielbasa cost for 38¢ a pound, and it cost $4.65 for a three minute station-to-station calling match between Chicago and New York. But that was back in the '20s and '30s of the 'twenties. Since then, just about everything has gone up, while the cost of Long Distance has steadily gone down. A call to San Francisco that cost $1.00 in the twenties, costs $1.60, plus tax, today (and if you dial direct after Midnite, you pay just 65¢, plus tax).

And as we lowered our prices, Illinois Bell customers have been able to lower their voices.

At Illinois Bell, we're always working to make your telephone a bigger bargain than ever—not just in Long Distance, but in your basic telephone service as well. And we've got an idea! Maybe. But it has been tested. It's called "Phone with phone service that's as modern as tomorrow," at a cost that's years behind the times.

A Day Sports Essay

The Kinneman Legacy

BY LINDA GAMBLE.

Dick Kinneman, retired basketball coach at Prospect High School, has been coaching basketball for a long time.

"I've never been coached under him," is Fred Empke's reaction to Kinneman's departure.

Empke, now in his third year as an assistant basketball coach at Forest View High School, was a member of Kinneman's first best caped team at the Forest View Relays.

UNDER KINNEMAN'S direction, the 1960-61 Knights earned a no. 2 state ranking in many polls and compiled a 26-2 record before being eliminated by the Forest View School by two sudden-death points in the first game of the state tournament's Arlington section.

That was the Knight's first year playing with a senior team. The 1961-62 season was the same as the 1960-61, except Fred Pomeroy, Dick Palmer, and Bill Zadel played to a 26-2 record.

Kinneman's last team as he left ever, pointing out that none of the four Jones in those two years was by more than two points.

KINNEMAN, WHOM'll be attending the University of Illinois in the fall, graduated from the University of Illinois in 1948 after a straight A record at Champaign Central High, where he stayed for six years.

He coached for Prospect for a 26-2 record. Then he moved for two years to Westerville, III, where his teams also fared well, winning 26-2 records each year. In both the years Kinneman piloted them.

From there he came to Prospect High School as an assistant coach and running basketball coach. He coached Fred Pomeroy, now a prospect at New York's Vassar College, two all-stars from Prospect, also feels that Kinneman's record was excellent.

"Kinneman is strict and he doesn't believe in the word 'can't.' During a game, he told me, 'You can't do this or you can't do that.' I took me out of the game right then. Later he said, 'Can you now?' and put me back in. I'll never forget that," Pomeroy said.

Tom Lundstedt, the other of Kinneman's two all-stars from Prospect, also feels that Kinneman's record was excellent.

"He's strict about the things he wants," Lundstedt said. "I think he's right. If he's telling you to do something, you know that you're not putting out 100 percent in practice, or maybe, 'OK, take a shower and come back.'

"I don't think you necessarily need to be a player to be a good coach, but having played the game is helpful," he commented.

Pomeroy, who served in the Air Force during World War II when he was in North Carolina with all-time football great Otto Graham, is now a member of Northwestern U.'s athletic director.

"I got married," he says, explaining why he didn't go into coaching upon retirement.

WHEN POMEROY moved down to upstate Seneca Falls, Kinneman moved to the Mount Prospect School to assume head basket ball coach. He did well there and soon established a mark for later teams to aim at.

"It was a little different for Lundstedt; he came up with a 'fine freshman team,'" Pomeroy said. Kinneman had a team of his own, both of whom Kinneman considered good ballplayers, moved, and that left Lundstedt alone.

"It was a good ball player, but I don't think anybody thought he'd make all-state," he said. "What he did on his own, says Kinneman, is that he's prideful of his students, coaches for making it easier for him."

Kinneman tailored his instructions to the individual player, and not necessarily to the whole team.

"I think kids who are outstanding in the big things will end up in a game," he says. "You have to try to keep them as relaxed and carefree as possible by letting them joke and getting them to play their best."

"I would be embarrassed to lose my dad and you have to try to develop that pride in your boys," he said.

WHETHER IT WAS pride, tradition, or just the Kinneman touch, Knight squads have gone on to win 155 games in consecutive seasons under his guidance. His guidance has prompted several of his standout players to go into coaching.

Two of that era's most successful high school basketball coaches, Tom Pomeroy of Arlington (left) and Prospect's Dick Kinneman, pose here in 1968. Both were inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1968. Both have now left high school coaching, Pomeroy for a college coaching spot, Kinneman as a business director at Hersey High School.

that his association with Kinneman got him into coaching.

"It inspired me," Pomeroy says. "I respected him very highly. I think that I went into coaching because of him."

POMERY, NOW freshmen coach at the University of Michigan, adds that although coaching on the college level is much different, he still follows Kinneman's lead.

"Kinneman is strict and he doesn't believe in the word 'can't.' During a game, he told me, 'You can now' and put me back in. I'll never forget that," Pomeroy said.

Tom Lundstedt, the other of Kinneman's two all-stars from Prospect, also feels that Kinneman's record was excellent.

"I don't think you necessarily need to be a player to be a good coach, but having played the game is helpful," he commented.

"I've had nothing but frustration from the basketball coaches I've seen in the past," he said. "I think he's right. If he's telling you to do something, you know that you're not putting out 100 percent in practice, or maybe, 'OK, take a shower and come back.'

OF COURSE, Pomeroy recalls, "You couldn't ask for better kids." He felt that Pomeroy had a good record, but he was a different type of coach for different circumstances.

KINNEMAN says that most of his success can be attributed to the players themselves.

"I've had nothing but frustration from the basketball coaches I've seen in the past," he said. "I think he's right. If he's telling you to do something, you know that you're not putting out 100 percent in practice, or maybe, 'OK, take a shower and come back.'

"I think that you're going to be successful if you have a good coach," he said.

He always used a man-to-man defense, and he taught his players to be aggressive.

He contends that the man-to-man is the toughest defense to break, and that's what his assistant coaches for making it easier for him.

Kinneman tailored his instructions to the individual player, and not necessarily to the whole team.

"I think kids who are outstanding in the big things will end up in a game," he says. "You have to try to keep them as relaxed and carefree as possible by letting them joke and getting them to play their best."

Cheap, Integrated Apartments Plan Surprises Mayors

By LARRY WILLS

The announcement that low-cost racially integrated housing may be built in the southern part of O'Hare International Airport has caught most officials by surprise, according to the mayor of Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, May 20, and the Rev. C. Virgil Martin, chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights and Open Communities, announced Tuesday that the housing would be built in the O'Hare area.

Mayors decided to specify who would be eligible for the apartments. O'Hare is Center Industrial Park in Elk Grove.

"WE NEED THEM housing so workers in suburban industries can live near their jobs," Mayor Martin said.

"Many suburban workers are suffering because of the shortage of moderate-income housing near their plants."

The $5 million estimated for the project proposed by the Chicago-based council would provide 1,000 units of industrial workers in the suburbs.

"WE NEED THEM" housing so workers in suburban industries can live near their jobs," Mayor Martin said.

"Many suburban workers are suffering because of the possibility is "preposterous" and that the project may not be feasible.

The 15-story figure, Woods said, would not be enough to attract sufficient private investment if any low-cost apartments could be built in the surrounding municipalities.

"They might be able to build them at a cost of $200,000 per unit," he said. "It's not available for comment."

Arlington Heights Mayor James J. McGinnis said the first he had heard of the proposal was Tuesday.

Woods speculated that Tuesday's press report

"It's the first I heard of it," he said.

"I'm surprised by the announcement. Ralph Bruns, of Bellwood, told me last week he heard rumors, but he didn't know where they came from."

"We hear many rumors in the business, however."

Dale Fink, Prospect

Arlington Heights Village Board has passed an ordinance requiring real estate brokers to post fair housing regulations, but no restrictions were placed on the sale of houses to private buyers.

Des Plaines City Council is considering its version of such an ordinance.

No ordinance has been passed in Mount Prospect; however, a resolution supporting fair housing principles passed last month.

WEATHER

Tonight: Occasional showers, temperature 58; humidity: mostly cloudy, windy, however, high in the 50s.

Elk Grove Auditor Warns Of Chicago Annexations

By RICHARD CRABB

Electors attending the Elk Grove Township Tuesday evening meeting were given a map of the township revealing it is surrounded by municipalities and the City of Chicago occupy some or part of the area.

The map, presented by Township Auditor Bernard F. Petrone, showed that Elkhorn, Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Skokie, Mequon and the Palos are the suburban municipalities in Elk Grove Township. The City of Chicago and O'Hare International Airport occupy a substantial portion of the northwest corner of the township. Referring to the intrusion of Chicago, which has annexed the towns of Skokie, Wilmette, Northbrook, Glenview, Northfield, Skokie, and the village of Skokie, Petrone said:

"This is a very insidious movement. The City of Chicago removes that part of our township from our tax rolls and then comes in and takes over what previously was Elk Grove Township territory."

The 100 electors attending the town meeting endorsed every resolution adopted by township officers, approving budgets amounting to $1,000,000 for the year ending June 30, 1968, a general budget of $167,460, a 1968-69 school budget of $1,250,000 and excess funds amounting to $100,000.

Every item was approved unanimously except for the transfer of funds to the Community Mental Health Fund.

Collector Arnold Scharrington said that real estate taxes for 1968 will not be subject to penalty this year under June 1. He said the tax rate will be 8 cents per $100 assessed value, up from 7 cents per $100 last year.

The tax rate will be 9.6 cents higher in Arlington Heights, 9.5 cents in Rolling Meadows and 5.4 cents higher in Des Plaines.

THE THERE WAS A sprinkling of "yes" votes on a proposal by parishes to express their view that there is little or no chance of the city taking over the mental health institutions, the Northwest Community Clinic and the Clearbrook Clinic.

The transfer of surplus funds, amounting to $1,421,000, was voted as follows: General Assistance Fund, $33,000; Community Chest, $10,000; Senior Center, $14,242; elementary school district, $100,000. It was the opinion of the auditor that the funds in the history of the township.

The five school districts will share in the $1,000,000 available for the transfer of funds.

The exact amounts will be known until tax collection is completed, but the districts will receive approximately 20 per cent more than the amount received in the year when there was $15 (Rolling Meadows), $1,736, ($1,643); $15,740 (Schaumburg) $6,464; Dist. 57 (Mount Prospect) $1,627, and Dist.

Dialogue

"That's certainly an interesting position the Air Force put itself in with the new F-104A fighter-bomber."

"Yes, I think they are trying to lay in Vietnam. The one we know best is the ground attack, but there are two of the expensive planes."

"That's the one..."

"What makes you think it's the ground attack in an interesting position?"

"Well, with all the Mustangs, Av-7s, and other planes given to its construction and now its deployment in Vietnam, you was to think it's the ground attack marketing a new auto model."

"I guess the Air Force would never have known about the terrible new weapon."

"About the only thing the enemy wasn't told during World War II if we had new weapons is the frequency of its radio. And they probably have that, now that they shot down some of the planes."

"We've heard a flow of news releases about the F-104A. We don't know how its radar allows it to skim along at that speed just a few hundred feet above the ground."

"Well, I suppose that's part of the secret of its success. We'd like to know what is happening or will be occurring with the new fighter plane."

"Yes, but imagine what would have happened during World War II if we had operated that way? A new release says one day might have read:

"The aircraft carries 1,000 pounds of fuel. Harbor today heading toward Japan with a load of 1,000 pounds of F-104A bombers aboard."

We were told about how much the plane can take off and how its radar allows it to skim along at that speed just a few hundred feet above the ground."

"Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower left Port Harbor yesterday heading toward Japan with a load of 1,000 pounds of F-104A bombers aboard."

Gen. James Doolittle, commanding general of the air force, told reporters that the target is Tokyo.

Of course, the Japanese would have heard the answer to it even before it hit the transmitter and when the B-25 arrived over the target the Japanese had already gone down and ten hundreds of "Yankee Go Home" signs. To say nothing of the many other fighter planes that would have come along to support it.

Battle for Bingo is On Again

The battle for bingo is on again.

More accurately, it's continuing.

When the bid to legalize bingo was held low last fall by the Illinois Senate, Springfield got only 85 votes for it, and 118 against. In its passage, proponents of the popular game of chance admitted that it was a setback, but not final defeat.

A strong, determined effort is under way to red-vocate to gain their objective.

A GROUP called Illinois Organizations for Charitable Enterprises has put together $34,173 in contributions to help the bingo legalizing issue placed on the ballot either at the Nov. 11 primary or the Nov. 3 general election.

Illinois' bingo policy requires signatures of 10 percent of the total voters in each county. The IOCE has secured election.

Not far from suburban chapters of fraternal and veterans groups are expected to turn out in large numbers in drive for signatures.

AMONG THOSE attending the recent IOCE meeting in Chicago were the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Military Veterans League, Paralyzed Veterans of America, and the Order of the Purple Heart.

Paralyzed Veterans of America, Knights of Columbus, Catholic War Veterans, Illinois American War Veterans, and the IOCE spokesman Wilbur Bunde of Springfield, a physician, said the new organization represents a half million members.

Local chapters of the East Louis IOCE president.

The bingo proposal supports the idea of 15 percent of bingo funds to be made available for mental health, while all bingo operations, including the newly formed state bingo commission to be appointed by the governor.

One service is that a unique organization has been in existence for five years or more, it would not be allowed to play bingo games, according to Bunde.

THE CONTROVERSIAL bingo has been up for the lawmakers' consideration for several months.

Keeping an attractive lawn is not especially easy. It is usually possible, however, if you use modern fertilizers, mowing and watering.

An adequate fertilizer program is important. It will help produce an attractive, dense stand of grass that will withstand weed invasion and recover from disease or insect damage.

Many fertilizers are complete fertilizers, containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, or a mixture of both, are used to fertilize lawns. Ammonium nitrate and ammonium sulfate lawn growth, are merely deficient in Illinois soils. If a deficiency is suspected you can add a small amount of fertilizer that contains major and minor elements.

INORGANIC: Inorganic fertilizers are usually more rapid in action than organic fertilizers. They are usually more expensive per pound of fertilizer.

The organic fertilizers are usually more slowly absorbed by the soil, and the organic and mineral elements are released if too much is applied at one time. Also, since the elements in organic fertilizers (nitrogen) become available for plant use, the grass may grow too rapidly if the fertilizer is applied.

This is less likely to happen with the use of synthetic organic fertilizers.

BOTH ARE available in liquid, powdered or granular form. The choice of form, results depend upon the amount of fertilizer required, especially nitrogen, that are applied. Lawn fertilizers are often mixed with other materials for controlling weeds, disease and insects. This is a sure way to save if a particle is needed.

The fertilizer container will show the amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. The fertilizer bag will also contain a label, for example, indicating that it contains 10 percent nitrogen, 6 percent phosphoric acid, and 4 percent potassium oxide.

ALTHOUGH not common, fertilizer burns can be caused by over application in hot weather. Fortunately, the grass usually recovers. To prevent fertilizer burn, apply only the recommended amount of fertilizer, especially if using liquid or powdered fertilizers, which stick to the grass blades and stems.

The fertilizer container will show the amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. The fertilizer bag will also contain a label, for example, indicating that it contains 10 percent nitrogen, 6 percent phosphoric acid, and 4 percent potassium oxide.

A LAWN should be cut often enough that no more than a third of the grass is removed. That is, approximately three inches should be cut at least by one-third of the height of the grass, or one-third of the grass height removed by mowing.

Whether or not to catch clippings can be open to question. Removing the clippings usually improves the appearance of the lawn, especially right after mowing. If mowing is done during dry weather and the clippings have been allowed to dry, they will not be drawn by the mower, it can be left to catch them and sweep them up.

A LAWN can be maintained without extra water. Although unattractive, a lawn that is kept dry during the summer will usually bounce back when watered in the fall. Watering is necessary, however, to keep the grass green during dry periods.

A well-established lawn will require about 1 to 1½ inches of water every 7 to 10 days during dry periods, or just before the grass turns brown.

If the lawn is on a sandy soil, it may be necessary to water more frequently, especially in hot weather. When the grass wilts and becomes brittle (it will break and become brittle) it is time to water.

TO BE attractive, a lawn must be well-maintained properly. Many poor lawns are the result of poor mowing practices and equipment. Whether it is a lawn or a home, however, prefer to follow more specific programs than minimum practices.

LOW MAINTENANCE:

Apply 1½ to 2 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in early spring and fall plus 1 pound in mid-summer. This should prove satisfactory for a watered Kentucky bluegrass and for a non-watered Kentucky bluegrass-red fescue lawn.

HIGH MAINTENANCE:

Apply 1½ to 2 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in early spring and fall plus 1 pound in mid-summer. This should prove satisfactory for Marion Kentucky bluegrass and for a non-watered Kentucky bluegrass.

LOW MAINTENANCE:

Apply 1½ to 2 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in early spring. This program should be repeated every 6 weeks.

The amount of water necessary to wet the soil to this depth can be determined by hand and error.

On the day of mowing, one can check the depth of water that has been applied by digging in a shovel or other tool and observing the water level with the topsoil.

The length of time it takes to wet the soil to this depth will determine the amount of water to be applied.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20)—Do others a favor; allow them to help you if they do. You are more likely to try to do it alone just now.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 19)—Your personal energies are up and you should gain more from your work experience.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Without giving up anything, try for an increase in popularity and success. The future looks particularly bright.

CANCER (June 22-July 21)—Make no effort to mix with other people. On-the-job and social associations should be kept separate.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21)—Seek out a friend in whom you feel confident. Keep personal problems to yourself; you will only increase suffering.

VEGRO (Aug. 22-Sept. 21)—Confidence in your job performance should be looking up at this time. It's time to let your ego get much on the surface.

LIBRA (Sept. 22-Oct. 21)—Social commitments come first this week, even at the expense of your personal freedom. Wind things up in short order.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Nov. 21)—Don't spend time on trivial matters. You are in action without delay and you should be able to call your own shots.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Let those in authority know the progress of your program. Keeping your improvement to yourself will not help.

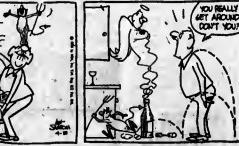

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)—It's time for you to have a hand in disposing of other people's property. Watch the actions of others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 19)—Don't take others at face value. You are the best test of least use to you may turn out to be the real wielders of influence.

Furry Circuit Breaker Blacks Out Homes

A curious raccoon was responsible for the power failure that blacked out 6,000 homes in Hoffman Estates yesterday morning.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said the animal entered the circuit breaker at Illinois 72 and Roselle Roads about 12:30 a.m. yesterday power line.

Residents in an area bounded by Main Grove Rd., Jones Rd., Schuberton Rd. and the Northwest Tollway were without electricity from 11:29 p.m. to 2:12 a.m.

Burglars Hit 3 Apts.

Police said there were no signs of forced entry in any of the apartments.

The items taken from the three Taylor homes included a $100 stock valued at $500; a $100 radio and two vases were taken.

The police force of Clarendon Hills, Ia., handled the heisted loss. A total of $1,329 was recovered.

Taylor told Arlington Heights Police he and his wife were home when the day started and discovered the theft when they returned home.

Taylor told police a man had been containing insurance policies, auto titles, credit union deposit books, bank and service stations, birth certificates and miscellaneous items. He said the items were taken from the bedroom of the apartment.

TWO RESIDENTS on the 100 block of the apartment complex also reported burglaries to police.

A total of $478 in camera equipment and liquor and several credit cards were reported taken from the apartment.

Police said the damage was valued at $300.

Christopher Melby told police jewelry and typewriter valued at $85, were taken from his apartment.

Push to Pave or Vacate Clarendon Coming Monday

By Charles Mousakas
Whether to pave Clarendon between Ridge and Highland — or to be renamed Main Street — is the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees' legal contention.

Neither the trustees nor the Suburban Land Owners' League (SLOC) have been able to decide the issue for the last two years.

The dilemma has been created partly because short stretches of the street have been misplaced by the village — so that, if they are paved, the street would drop steeply from one end to the other, and would never provide private property with a few feet of driveway.

The issue has been compounded by the fact that the trustees split among themselves over what to do.

An engineering study shows to date last week proposed still another solution.

Prepared by DeLoach, Cather and Co., it recommended that the street not be vacated, but rather be reconstructed and the area graded and seeded.

The legal question is whether the suggestion would have been neither to vacate nor to pave.

CLARENDO Manager A. H. Horowitz weighed when asked to express his opinion of the study during a previous meeting of the trustees.

He said the street would have to be vacated — not something in-betweens.

The section under consideration is bounded by Ridge and Belmont. Six houses face the street and seven have driveways leading to the houses.

Mrs. Brinkley also said she believes that of the 14 families living on Clarendon, 10 would like to have the street paved, two have not made up their minds.

Brinkley said the street should be vacated because "it is not up to us to move."

Those living on Clarendon will not be served, according to Mrs. Brinkley, if they park in driveways to the side streets.

Horowitz, who lives at Clarendon and Chestnut, said he does not believe action is needed to take care of the street.

There is no right for the village to take a street off the map because the people don't want it," Mrs. Brinkley said.

"It's injustice to me and to others on Clarendon who wish to keep the street."

MRS. MARY HOGAN of 2111 W. Old Orchard Rd. said she does not want to see Clarendon paved.

PLANNERS DEFEAT MOTION TO DENY REAR YARD TRIM

Some residents on Clarendon were apprised for the improvement of Olive Street between Ridge and Belmont that street could be paved.

It's not right for the village to take a street off the map because the people don't want it," Mrs. Brinkley said.

They want a street in like Main Street," Mrs. Brinkley said.

They will still live on unpaved roads.

Mrs. Raymond Carroll: "We have paid all that money and we still live on an unpaved road."

The village trustees will meet at 7 p.m. on Monday, April 8, to discuss the matter.

Planning Commission members will set the trustees to make the village to pay some money to the trustees if grading does not provide adequate solution to the problem.

BRUNELLA: RAIDED BY TOLI

TO SET THE TRUSTEE'S TO PAY SOME MONEY TO THE TRUSTEES IF GRADING DOES NOT PROVIDE AN APPROPRIATE SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM.

Mr. Rucker, chairman of the SLOC, said he would not be satisfied until a point, and that restoration will be made.

Rucker said that when the original design of the street was changed, the street was paved. When it was later decided to grade the street, he said, field changes were made to the street adjacent to residential property.

Mr. Raymond Tucker, chairman of the Arlington Industrial Park on North Arlington, said he is a member of the planning commission for many years.

The trustees should not vacate a street any longer, he said, according to Mr. Carroll.

Mr. Carroll said Clarendon should be paved with driveways on it would have to be vacated to give people access to the side streets.

CLARENDO, according to Mr. Carroll, is well-developed and has a good future, he said.

Mr. Carroll said Peter's Lutheran School is part of the 30-acre industrial tract, but the residential property of 3-11 Clarendon is not.

Junior High TV Attracts Visitors, Free Teachers

BY RICHARD CRABB

Visitors are coming from all over the United States and Canada to learn about the use of closed circuit television in the Arlington Heights junior high schools.

A few days ago visitors from a school in Morristown, N.J., came to Arlington Heights to observe the equipment and use of closed circuit TV. The head of the delegation was Head of District 25.

"We have studied closed circuit television in our schools from coast to coast, and we've not seen anything to compare with what you're doing here."

Just before the Morristown visitors came, Japan's minister of education and a delegation of Japanese educators spent three days in the first section of the school year to observe and other visual aid equipment in Arlington Heights junior high schools.

Since then, another educational mission from Puerto Rico has come to study the use of television in Dist. 25 schools.

"They do not know of any junior high schools in the Chicago area or in the United States that have been able to do what we have done," says Oles D. Blomquist, superintendent for the Dist. 25 television work. "That use of television is unique in the manner which we do in the three junior high schools."

"The use of television is unique in the district's use of educational television because it is programmed specifically for each school with a relatively low investment per student."

Having each school independent makes possible much more effective use of television because restrictions are rapid if they become necessary to accommodate class sizes.

The cost of the three school circuits approximates $20,000, compared with investment of $150,000 in schools with more complex systems.

ELMS REPORTS there are three major areas of concern in TV systems in general.

"Schools have one central studio and a program advantage to other buildings 1957. The first facilities were built and put into use at Thomas Junior High School in 1965. Since then, two additional schools have been built in the district, both two junior high schools.

"This year, 126 teachers and 2,750 students in the three junior high schools involved in our television program."

Each of the three closed circuit installations is designed to accommodate a single building, with personnel within each building responsible for evaluating teacher programming.

"This does not prevent the use of programming between buildings."

"The system is unique in the district's use of educational television because it is programmed specifically for each school with a relatively low investment per student."

Having each school independent makes possible much more effective use of television because restrictions are rapid if they become necessary to accommodate class sizes.

The cost of the three school circuits approximates $20,000, compared with investment of $150,000 in schools with more complex systems.

ELMS REPORTS there are three major areas of concern in TV systems in general.

"Schools have one central studio and a program advantage to other buildings

Dr. Robert Campbell, assistant superintendent of Dist. 25, has directed from the beginning, the development of the junior high television system which is unique in the country. From other state and foreign countries. This year, 2,750 students are attending televised lessons.

Within the district, says Elms, Other districts are only beginning to realize the potentialities of television.

"There are districts which are not using television as a tool for individualized instruction for students."

"Probably the most important advantage is the use of television in the school system," says Elms. "Other districts are only beginning to realize the potentialities of television as a tool for individualized instruction for students."

Troop 333 Scouts Prepare for Hike Along Clark Trail

BY RICHARD CRABB

More than 20 members of Arlington Heights Boy Scout Troop 333 held their final workout over the weekend in preparation for their annual hike along the Clark Trail.

The boys will leave April 14 for the hike, which will be an observance of Illinois' 150th birthday.

Many of the scouts took part in the annual campout at Scoutmaster Richard Dunlap and his troop to the Sioux Indian Reservation in western South Dakota. These scouts were members of a Sioux Indian Boy Scout Troop.

Plans were made for the Clark Trail, which starts from the west. They began training last Saturday.

"It's a boy-led trip," said Dunlap. "The experienced scouts will lead the trail, and we have a number of new scouts 11 years old who joined last summer and will have an opportunity to lead on the first big scout trip."

The group leaders made some of the most outstanding gains I've ever known."

Dunlap said the boys were trained in meal preparation, camp procedures and other outdoor skills.

"With freedom to give a leader, a boy can motivate individual students to research subjects which has not been learned."

After a morning of "hunting dinner" with time for individual activities, the boys will be taught again without any additional expenditure of money.

"Teachers gain an opportunity with the aid of their students to teach them personally. That is really gratifying," Dunlap said.

The participants bring along the classroom materials and beyond through closed circuit television is another resource," Dunlap added.

"With freedom to give a leader, a boy can motivate individual students to research subjects which has not been learned."

Layered Baked Ham with Raisin Sauce

A traditional ham dinner for the Easter family—Layered Baked Ham with Raisin Sauce.

BY MARILYN HILFERS
Woman's Editor

The traditional Easter entree is ham, but serving it whole to a small family can always prove a bit daunting. Here's a smaller version that's a snap for Easter, especially suited for smaller families.

Golden raisins. Maraschino cherry juice and prepared yellow mustard make a quick envelope of brown gravy mix, stirred and simmered for 5 minutes. Half of the sauce is used as filling between two layers of ham, which are then covered over the top. Cover with foil and bake for 30 minutes.

Round out the Easter menu with scalloped potatoes, baked carrots and green beans. For dessert, serve a simple salad of mixed greens, crushed pineapple, celery and shredded coconut is the perfect foil.

The traditional ham dinner for the Easter family—Layered Baked Ham with Raisin Sauce.

LAYERED BAKED HAM WITH RAISIN SAUCE

2 envelopes (4 oz.) French's Brown Gravy Mix

1-1/2 cups water

1/2 cup dried golden raisins

1/2 cup Maraschino cherry juice

1/2 cup prepared yellow mustard

2 ham slices cut 1/4 inch thick (about 1-1/2 lbs. each)

Orange slices

Mixed green salad

Empty contents of gravy envelope into a separate bowl. Add water, bring to a boil and stir until smooth. Add raisins and maraschino juice. Simmer occasionally. Place one ham slice in a shallow baking pan. Cover with half of the sauce. Top with other ham slice and spoon remaining sauce over the top. Cover loosely with foil. Bake in 350 degree oven 30 minutes. Remove foil and garnish with orange slices and Maraschino cherries.

How Do You Answer Death?

BY THE REV. ELMER A. FISCHER

When the monster of war walks the earth, death is always at his heels. The terse phrase "killed in action," makes its way with a trampling sort of cruelty today in scores of our American cities.

In addition to the men in uniform whose lives have been taken as a part of war's bitter cost, there are the vastly larger numbers who die because of the large-scale destructions of international conflicts. One need only to think of the toll of starvation which the Vietnamese are having to pay in consequence of the war.

To be sure, there is a sense in which war does not give us an extra amount of death. It is a fact that human lot is to be marked for death. That led the minister of falter "to come through" at Saigon might have lived to be 80 but he could not expect to put off death much beyond that point.

What we mean today is a dramatic heightening of the fact of death. Death takes the headlines. Death thrusts itself into our consciousness in new and forceful ways. Many of us face it as a threat - death recently invaded our circle of love. Many more fear it. We fear - it is an unrelieved possibility that hangs like a dark cloud over some dear one of ours, or indeed over ourselves.

THE QUESTION I WANT TO RAISE is this: What meaning is: Do we have what it takes to face up to death? Do you? Do I? Can we meet it head on with confidence that we are death's answer to its victory? Can we say like the Apostle Paul in the very teeth of death triumphantly, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?...Thanks be unto God which giveth us this victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

One finds that there are a number of extremes in which men talk about death. Some say "death is nothing". They would have us believe that death, along with evil is unreal, and that the meaning of life is greater than the meaning of death. But, the Holy Word of God and the deep intuitions of the human heart both proclaim that death is a reality of ghostly power.

If there are those who shrug their shoulders and say "death is nothing" let me assure others who have immediate vision of death. They say "death is everything". Death is the end of all things. According to this view it is useless to look for any victory of immortality over mortality, of eternity over time, of hope over despair.

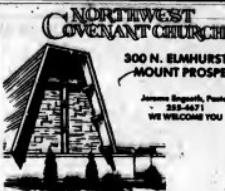

NOW LET US BE VERY HONEST with ourselves. Isn't it true that handling of death is an area of real difficulty for most of us? Besides, it doesn't fit us for facing death honestly and saying something to it. Is there, then, no rock of faith upon which we can stand and shout some clear cut word to this warning destroyer that tramps through our land? Thank God, there is.

Sunrise Services

Easter services start early at the South Church, Community-Baptist in Mount Prospect. The traditional "Easter Dawn" service sponsored by the young people of the church will be held at the church weather permitting at 5:24 a. m. and will be followed by the Easter breakfast. This is a tradition of long standing at this church. The Rev. Paul Sandin will preach the sermon.

SPECIAL EASTER Morning worship will be held at 8:15, 9:30 and 11. The theme of the messages by the pastors will be "The Dawn of a New Day." The Rev. Edwin I. Stevens, senior pastor, will preach at 8:15 and 11; the Rev. Mr. Sandin at 9:30.

According to the Rev. Mr. Stevens, the title and subject of the messages will be "The Light and the Truth that follows the darkness of the suffering and death of Christ."

Tenebrae Service

Lutheran Church of the Cross

2223 South Goebel Road

Arlington Heights, Illinois

The Easter message is "Christ is risen indeed". And Jesus Said, "whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

Like you see this Jesus on the cross. He claims to be God in the human form, with God's lonely right to forgive sins. He says he will verify this claim by laying down his life and dying is the staggering thing - by taking it again. Who did it? Did Jesus do it, or did He not? If His death was the end, then says Paul, we have no Savior. But Jesus rose from the dead on Easter morning.

Services Of Light, Darkness

Maudy Thursday and Good Friday, April 11 and 12, will be observed at the South Church, Community-Baptist in Mount Prospect in that they are both traditionally involved in light and darkness according to the Rev. Edwin L. Stevens, senior pastor.

The Maudy Thursday service at 8 p.m. is a communion service in commemoration of Jesus' last supper with his disciples in the upper room. The sermon will be preached by Paul Rawley with the subject "The Men Who Came to Dinner". Communion will be served by the Board of Deacons and when the service is concluded the candles will be gradually extinguished symbolic of the power of darkness and the light of the disciplines and the suffering of the Lord.

The Good Friday Tenebrae Service also will be at 8 p.m. The word "Tenebrae" is the plural of the Latin word for "darkness". The service will start with a fully lighted candle and sanctuary. The scenes of the "Way of the Cross" will be enacted by the pastors and the choir. Through these successive scenes of Christ's suffering and death the lights will gradually fade as the dark service will allow them to overshadow Him. At the conclusion of the service one light will shine in the form of a single candle on the altar table signifying that while darkness

EASTER MEANS

"He is not here; he is risen!" The empty tomb, is what Easter is all about. It means victory over death—he and his yours. Easter tells us there is more to this life than what appears.

Life's struggles all seem to end with the tombstone. They don't seem worth the trouble. But if the grave is not the end of it, a new perspective is created. Death is not just defeat; it is a doorway to an unknown, perhaps fearsome future.

Easter is to show us a guide for the trip through that doorway. Jesus has been there before. Commitment of our future to him also gives new meaning, new purpose, new tasks for the present. That's what our Church is all about. We invite you to come and share in this meaningful life with us.

Schools Here Pay Tribute to Slain Rights Leader

Many public and private schools in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect flew flags at half-mast this morning to honor Dr. Martin Luther King.

Cook County Superintendent Robert P. Haubert recommended that we do this in memory of King, principal of Prosser High School. Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent of High School Dist. 214, told us we should do so.

Wheland, Forest View, Elgin, Glenview, Skokie and Bellwood also honored King by flying their flags at half-staff to honor him.

Also flying at half-staff was the flag of Thomas Junior High School, in Prospect Heights. Dist. 23. Principal Robert Spiale said all home room teachers had announced King's death.

He said they'd probably be telling the children that King was a great leader who advocated equality and approached civil rights "in a non-violent way."

The flag was made for parents of students in Prospect Heights Dist. 23, so no one else in the school staff or administration was asked to fly it. Principal Tom Rich, of MacArthur Junior High School, said, however, he's quite sure something would have been done if children had been present.

Administrators Robert Hough of the Elkhart R. Padover School in Palatine, and John J. O'Farrell of the district's 15 buildings in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village had been asked to fly their flags at half-mast in King's honor.

AT DRESDNER Junior High School in Mount Prospect, principal Don Shidner said that the social studies classes were discussing King's death and its effect.

"The students are great men who was providing leadership for our nation, and for the world," he said. "I think the world is far worse off today because of his death."

Calendar Girl

Laurie Conroy, a model, was selected as Calendar girl for March by the National Foremost Lingerie Council. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Conroy of 1911 N. Ridge. She has been a dancer for three years and a model for two years. Her father, a commercial artist, encouraged her to find a career in modeling, she says. Laurie plans to finish high school this summer and to work full-time for a year before she enters college, probably as an art major.

Park Citizens Group to Hear Suggestions in Meetings, Poll

BY ERIN LYNN

Arlington Heights residents will have two opportunities to offer suggestions to the Citizens Park Advisory Council, as it is known, for parks and through a census.

The census and representatives of the advisory council will listen to市民 suggestions at a public meeting scheduled for Thursday, April 11.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Harold L. Stiercham Administration Center, 1000 N. Kildeen Rd., Mount Prospect.

The council members agreed that they would not conduct the meeting to answer the specific questions on the survey, but would let the citizens facilities, but could give them a chance to make their wishes known to the council.

The citizens' committee organization will not allow the public to make their wishes known to the council, member, last night.

The advisory committee recommends that the citizens' committee to the Arlington Heights Parks and Recreation Commission on plans for the development of parks and recreation facilities. The community is passing on a petition for a new park at the intersection of Elmhurst and Kildeen roads. The petitioners are not to make their wishes known to the council, member, last night.

The citizens' committee organization will not allow the public to make their wishes known to the council, member, last night.

AN EDITORIAL

A Time of Evil

A great American is dead — shot down by an assassin in whom was distilled all the evil of the world. Like valiant soldiers who stand before him, Martin Luther King was a victim of the henchman which is the by-product of the change he was helping to bring about.

As he lay dying (here in the world with the Nobel Prize for his effort toward the brotherhood of man), he died in violence; a couple of justice, he was executed by the system of mindless hatred and prejudice.

Great Americans die, and they mourn, the state of their country in which the laws of decency and order, respect for the rights of others, even patriotism had fallen into such decay that a climate for that tragedy exists.

Even in this enlightened community of ours there are those who, either by prejudice or apathy, fail to grasp the magnitude of the disgraceful happening last night in Memphis.

Most of the citizens voted to The Day has been that of a national disaster. They showed their grief over the bitter and callous few to the effect that "King had been killed."

And this was the natural reaction of those who translated the slaying of Dr. King into a forewarning of new and fierce racial strife.

This is a dismal and alarming possibility. But sufficient to say, once again, God's sense of a courageous and honorable man is evil indeed.

Mayor John Woods of Arlington Heights speaks for most of us:

"It is a sad and tragic thing which should touch the heart and the conscience of every American."

Summer Jobs for College Students

BY BETTY HANNEN
Plus Two Parts

The big rush for summer jobs is on. Now is the time to start thinking about your spring vacation to think ahead about summer work. An experienced college student or earlier applicant has the best opportunity for the summer job market.

"Don't waste weeks looking for a job," Register reporter Jerry Andraff, Chicago branch manager of the National Career Service, 5550 N. Elston. "The student may have a personal interview within days. If you are qualified, you can go to work as soon as school is dismissed," said Andraff.

If you can type, file, or run a business machine, a job is waiting for you. "Many positions are available for men and women for vacation periods, when regular employees are on vacation or work overload, and for special projects," a student may have opportunities for part-time," said Andraff.

Applicants will be assigned to a job which matches their qualifications without office skills qualify for a job as a typist, stenographer, or file clerk.

Many firms accept inexperienced workers who are serious about working. "There is no better place to find a job than in almost unlimited numbers," said Andraff.

A NEW high school graduate with a good academic record, specific interest, good vocabulary and know how to get along with people, and some business courses, said Cairns.

Most big companies send representatives to colleges to recruit workers.

If a college student is particularly prominent in college, the company is often not interested in him for a summer job," said Andraff.

"All northwest suburban agencies offer summer work if there is a specific interest, good vocabulary and know how to get along with people, and some business courses," said Cairns.

Business is booming and the vacation period is a good time to look for a job. "About all the available young men 20-25," said Bob Calin vice president of the Chicago office of a private placement agency.

"TELL STUDENTS to talk typists and engrav in specific interests, because this may be the foot in the door to a career," said Cairns.

Some companies offer training programs for students who want to become permanent employees.

"They have to start with some basic training and then begin a chosen career," said Cairns.

The employing firm has spent time and money for training and further training should be given his opportunity.

Some college men short by three or four hours for graduation think they are not good enough to get a job in a company. Big companies often train men to work with them while a college student can often begin a career during the summer months before graduation," said Cairns.

Most COLLEGE men recognize that becoming a gunner or pilot in the air force or three years with the army or navy does not serve as job experience.

The northwest suburbs is a good place to look for work with many educational schools. Hiring companies include business, medical and liberal scholastic aids. "In today's labor market, teaching is one of the best ways to earn $10 to $11,000 bracket man," said Cairns.

They do not want a trouble-maker, one who can do a good job, or a good employee, or who goes from job to job," said Cairns.

College seniors are especially desirable.

We Think We've Got Troubles

BY MARY BRUCE

Coping with the teenagers of today can be mentally and spiritually draining. It's particularly frustrating morning of telling our daughter why she can't go to the mall looking like something from outer space, and then minutes to reflect on the problem facing her and her teenaged son.

The year 2000 will be known as the Pushbutton Age, and we'll be glad to leave their far off planet as a mother says to her daughter "Don't worry about the dishes, just finish the dishes."

"What do you do if he does not? Why can't the robot do them? You know how pushing all the buttons can give you blisters. And anyway why can't we have more help around the house?" she asks. "I mean, there's even a robot on Mars have a robot for every room."

"Just wait till you get married and you can have many robots at your disposal," mother answers as they do everything.

I'd especially like to see how they solve their problems because I'm sure they'll never get anyone in house to admit there is such a thing. I'm sure there is some comforting thought to know there are quite a few other people who are having similar garage problems, too.

THE ENTIRE HOUSE

is run over to be one big control machine. It seems to me my daughter of the future will be a computer operator or a mechanic or she will be in some kind of production line. She will be flying all over the universe for days. Just visualize the panic when she comes home from her daughter comes home 2 years late from Mars. She will be so excited to see you again. What the future will bring us is anyone's guess. Next men will be our next generation of millionaires.

When ever the kids

get home from school

she will be hearing all about what she did here and there. And how she wants to go to Venus for a dance (if they still do that sort of thing) leaves me cold just thinking about it.

Goddess of Love and who knows what kind of body

she has after all those years of sitting up in Honeycomb spot of outer space, with all those garbage problems, too.

It's a good idea to control machines. It seems to me my daughter of the future will be a computer operator or a mechanic or she will be in some kind of production line. She will be flying all over the universe

for days. Just visualize the panic when she comes home 2 years late from Mars. She will be so excited to see you again. What the future will bring us is anyone's millionaires.

When ever the kids

get home from school

she will be hearing all about what she did here and there. And how she wants to go to Venus for a dance (if they still do that sort of thing) leaves me cold just thinking about it.

But someone else I can't seem to figure out is who is going to clean up when they run out of trash. When you expect the father of your future will say when he hears about that kind of trash, he'll be shocked. Will he complain that he had to pay for lunch and suggest that his wife should have brought a jump suit and they'll split up to Mercury for dinner?

I UNDERSTAND that you are not concerned about the future of your child, but I am. When you expect the father of your future will say when he hears about that kind of trash, he'll be shocked. Will he complain that he had to pay for lunch and suggest that his wife should have brought a jump suit and they'll split up to Mercury for dinner?

It makes me rather sad to think it's a nice sense of continuity to think that when the kids grow up their grandchildren will end up with my crooked teeth.

THESE KIDS ARE THE FUTURE. I think that if all the kids are good, the world will be good. There'll be no need for self-improvement or trying to change the world, so where's the challenge?

It would go a long way to eliminating parents and grandparents, but here's where the challenge lies. I've gone through all this age group myself, so I may give up my right to have my future grandchildren.

It's a great feeling of accomplishment to have the powers of an old-fashioned woman from way back in 1964. Maybe I'll let my daughter wear that crazy pop-dress, and I'll let her sit in a giant clamshell. I end things no nicely since Aunt Harriet no longer with us, can.

Dist. 23 Group Plan Adjusts Teaching To Child's Ability

Board members of proposed High School District 23 Monday night learned details of the grouping plan currently under way which attempts to place of instruction to a child's ability.

In group planning people are classified into various learning groups on the basis of test results, group discussion, and parent-teacher consultation.

According to Don Graham, principal of Anne Sullivan

School, the grouping plan is for slow learners, though success with ungraded material through teachers who have been trained in these special students.

Nona Marwick, a fifth grade teacher at Anne Sullivan School, raised her eyebrows with some surprise when the school said that children now involved in the grouping plan from 10 to 15 and their problem stem from emotional difficulties as well as physical handicaps for specific ability levels.

GRAHAM SAID THE grouping plan's need for more differentiated services has dictated that most workers skilled in psychology will be available for education. In other schools Sups. Louis Pashay and John C. Hargan of districts—will receive $427 under the National Defense Education Act as financial reimbursement for $1,424 spent by the system on a science project.

Mounting Opposition to Housing Bill

Opposition to the Senate federal housing bill now before the House of Representatives is mounting rapidly in the nation, as word of the increasingly aware of the traditional rights of the individual while giving false hope to slum dwellers, according to

JOHN McCABE

John D. McCabe, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Besides the growing flow of letters from homeowners urging them to reject the bill, certain columnists and other proponents predicting " riots " are appearing in the press, and inferring that the bill would solve the housing problem. That these statements are part of the evidence of the shaky premises on which legislation is based.

"ACTUALLY," the bill could have the property owner from selling his home to the government, McCabe said in 1970, if he accepted a provision that would have been the biggest transaction of his life. In addition, it would deny him the right to sell to a real estate agent to find a summer tenant for his own house, and would limit the traditional freedom of choice," McCabe said. "If the owner, moreover, decided to try to handle the sale himself, he would have to pay his legal expenses, and he could be subject to a federal court suit with possibly a fine of up to $1,000 if he indicated in an advertisement a preference for colored buyers."

"Get the destruction of these traditional rights of the individual out of the disposition of personal property," McCabe urged over to the columnists who predicted that and also every proposal that would be made, "is 'moral' and must be adopted without question or analysis," he said.

"THE BILL will help solve the economic problem of the poor in the slums, so run your argument, while you know it also raises another false hope which is that the bill will end discrimination, and that such a bill became law," McCabe asked.

Mortgage Money Available Now;

May Be Tight Later in Year

A "reasonable" amount of mortgage money to finance home buying will be available through the end of the year, according to Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the Union League Savings & Loan League.

"The lending volume for the first half of the year," he said, "will depend upon how much of a 'pinch' exists in the economy, leading to savings flows and the extent to which Federal Home Loan Banks will be willing to aid the continuing flow of mortgage money."

Strunk said that thus far in 1968 the flow of mortgages has been strong, and he pointed out that loans closing by association in February were up 15 percent and those from siderably from the $950 million in January. The average of 1967 and a more than seasonal rise over the $1.4 billion in January is "a good 'pushover' factor" in the entire mortgage market picture.

"The total for the two months, however, has been marginally lower than the volume for the same period of 1963 through 1966."

"BUT THE savings loan association said that the volume for the second half of the year will be more important, however, than in the first half, because there will be mortgage repayments which announced by association and associations will have ramifications of billions of dollars to another $300 million or so."

That factor would bring association lending funds to $2.1 billion, or only slightly less than the $2.1 billion loaned last year."

year will be itself sustain considerable lending activity for the remainder of 1968," Strunk. "Even more important, however, is that in the second half of the year the economy will be more stable and credit markets will be more predictable, and speculation and the remedial decisions of the Federal Reserve will be reduced."

Strunk said that the "pushover factor" in the entire mortgage market picture is the current rate of savings growth of about $7 billion a

"Because very few of the negotiations between the owner and the government can be handled in the higher priced areas. The provision of adequate housing for the poor is a noble cause, but special pleaders would devote half their energy and thought to it, and the result would be dwellings of the poor by, for the most part, unqualified persons."

"GET THE DESTRUCTION of these traditional rights of the individual out of the disposition of personal property," McCabe urged over to the columnists who predicted that and also every proposal that would be made, "is 'moral' and must be adopted without question or analysis," he said.

"THE BILL will help solve the economic problem of the poor in the slums, so run your argument, while you know it also raises another false hope which is that the bill will end discrimination, and that such a bill became law," McCabe asked.

If the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors is joining with thousands of other associations across the country in opposing the bill, it is because the board is urging its members immediately with a letter to their legislators to reject the legislation. McCabe ex-

"Actually, no law of any kind is needed to effect equal opportunity in housing," he said. "It is the American way — only a willing and able person can succeed. Such a simple solution implies only tolerance and understanding. Realtors urge their men of good will should be seeking, out force and coercion."

THIS HOBBY HAVEN was designed for Maxine Corp. from Mouth's art studio. She's also rock painting, painting on woodgrained Living Wall panels, which also can be used for hanging paintings.

Ten panels were installed at extreme left and right to complement the rough-hewn look and provide an ideal setting just right for hobbyists. Shelves are built-in and also hang on woodgrained Living Wall panels, which also can be used for hanging paintings.

The nail is an all-purpose fastener.

Long History, Many Uses

THERE is no lack of fasteners on the market today and they get more ingenious every day. There are nuts and screws, bolts, anchors and glues, the lonely nail and countless other fasteners.

A fastener that goes back to Roman times and is still popular in its own right is the nail.

Though most nails are made from steel wire, new materials are being developed up all the time. Four types, however, remain in common use: common, flat-headed, casing and finishing nails.

Common nails are used for just about everything. Common heads are flat and are used for nailing wood together at the same length.

Finishing nails are thinner than common nails in any given length. They are thinner than casing nails in nail thickness.

Flat-headed finishing nails also are available in long lengths as common nails.

Now about length. You may have heard of four-penny, eight-penny, 30-, 40- and 60-penny nails. And you may have heard of the term "cut nail." This means a nail that is cut shorter than its original length.

Pull Welcome Mat From Under Thieves

"This is unacceptable," says somewhat baffled service with figures that show burglar losses are increasing. Every 28 seconds, he says, a burglar strikes.

Donald C. Bolt, president of the Embert Corporation's Kwikset Division in Antioch, Illinois, Bolt, whose company produces locks for homes and apartments, prefers his advice with figures that show burglar losses are increasing.

"The stress is the 'fun' descriptives," he says. "It's important to make entry so difficult a would-be-burglar will go elsewhere."

He adds: "The loss, Bolt

says, comes through which defense the most secure made."

HE STRESSES that the "fun" descriptives are to be interpreted as being intended to make entry so difficult a would-be-burglar will go elsewhere.

He adds: "The loss, Bolt

says, comes through

No house, he says, can be made absolutely burglar-proof, but it can be made so difficult that the average burglar will give up.

A BROOKLET put out by Kwikset outlines countermeasures that can be taken against illegal entry, from the viewpoint of experts in several law enforcement agencies, including the FBI, and from various local police organizations.

Many of the suggestions are of the "common sense" variety, such things as often ignored by homeowners, such as not allowing newspapers, milk or other packages to remain in the yard with an open front door. Don't leave garage doors open after advertising neighbors and police who are investigating suspicious packages in sight of passing motorists.

Several boys who were stealing packages were tempted by such easy availability.

The BROOKLET suggests that the most inexpensive way to make your door locks Jimmy-proof, but it can be made so difficult that the average burglar will give up.

One BROOKLET system is available which becomes as effective as a combination lock by using one's own fingerprints. Once the homeowner uses his own fingerprints to set the lock, any key that may have been duplicated or worked on will not open the lock.

If the burglar made entry

through the window he couldn't carry his tool off by the front door if it is the double door type which is held to the door jamb which resists jimmies.

THEN, there's the cylinder cylinder locks which can be added for security by turning the key on the outside or the thumb piece inside. These large locks are held to the door jamb which resists jimmies.

If the burglar made entry

through the window he couldn't carry his tool off by the front door if it is the double door type which is held jimmies.

BOLT SAYS homeowners

should not overlook the value of locks as the prime objective of making your house safe from burglars is to discourage the burglar.

An alarm going off can be quite disconcerting to the burglar.

Such systems are available in plug-in models.

He recommends that homeowners have locks

on all windows, doors, etc.,

much as you'd call an electrician in to check wiring, etc., before the demolition in locks and updating them in order.

After all, he recommends,

remember, burglars don't like noise, delay or risk. Common sense plus technology can provide most of the answers.

A stopped-up drain is a problem that calls for immediate repair.

More Than One Way To Unplug Drain

While a dripping faucet is one thing, a clogged drain is another.

THOUGH a drain stopper is the first thing that comes to mind, there are other ways to clear a drain.

Drain stoppers in wash basins and strainers in kitchen sinks are a matter of common knowledge.

Plunging down through the water and try to clean off the stopper. An ordinary plunger is best, but a rubber one or a rubber cup form quite a plug.

Wire with a hooked end can be useful to reach into the drain.

If the water starts to trickle through, let it drain. Then pour a mixture of baking soda and vinegar into the rest of the sink. Kitchen sinks have a filter that catches debris. Turn the water on and let it wash down through the drain.

Some older sinks have a drain plug at the base of the trap (the "U" section of the drain). Place a bucket under the sink and turn on the water from below and remove what might be too difficult from the trap.

If you cannot open a drain stoppage with a plunger, you will have to use a plumber's force cup. Use one to grip the rim of the drain opening. There must be enough water in the sink to cover the cup.

Work the plunger up and down to move the water against the stoppage.

After a few strokes, jerk the plunger sharply to the right as the water is moving. The force of suddenly pulling off the cup will break the stoppage.

If the water starts to trickle through, let it drain and repeat the process a few times.

If the water stops again, you will have to use a plumber's force cup. Use one to grip the rim of the drain opening.

Cords Can't Take Abuse

A prime suspect when an appliance fails to work is the cord. Some of the basic steps to follow if your electrical cords have the same flimsy cords and insulation as most of their less expensive counterparts.

Cord is bad, however. It is pulled and stepped on, bent, twisted, pinched, crushed and knotted. It is bent down, stepped on, and knotted.

Plug ends are often mangled affairs of flimsy material which crumble under pressure. Plugs are not sturdy enough to hold the screw that holds the plug itself.

IF IT IS WEAK, cut a cord quickly by yanking on a wire to disconnect a plug. Neither the manufacturer nor the insulation nor plug model will make to take, that kind of abuse. If you can't get a new plug life, plug the plug itself.

Once the base is cut, then the plug is flushed to the floor or another hazard to cords. Every time you step on the lamp, you cut a little deeper into the cord. Remove the insulation with a winding of tape and inspect the cord frequently.

DO NOT ALLOW wires to spread out over the floor while you are working on or tripping over. Clip them to the baseboard or shorted by a strap or tie to a non-metallic object. Plastic devices are good for this purpose.

DO NOT RUN cords under rugs or carpeting. If they are being walked on and there is the increased danger of shorts going undetected, then consider a fire in the rug.

Cords are organized so that they should be kept in the middle of the application of the appliance. These include iron, vacuum cleaner, broom, broom, broom, broom, broom, plates. The least that can happen is a charring of the insulation.

When plug creases are broken, then it is time to tape or glue them or repair them in any way. Buy and install new ones. The best are two-separately insulated.

GET A PLUG big enough to get a grip on. Prongs should be sharp and straight. Terminal screws should have heads to avoid easily causing a short.

Don't untwist the old plug. Cut off the wires behind it. The two separately insulated

Light-Up

Complete with hardware for installing, a lighted house number is a quick and easy fix for door-to-door salesmen. Pre-drilled mounting holes are provided. Visible day and night for ten years, the house number is priced at $7.50 and available by mail from General Electric Co., Dept. 110, Providence, R.I. If your local supplier does not handle it, strands in a lamp cord are mangled together. Separate them and twist them back out damaging the insulation.

Next, strip off about a half-inch of insulation from each strand. Twist together the loose strands. Scrape the end of the insulation with the dull edge of a knife. Though not necessary, a thin coat of electrical tape will stiffen them and make them easier to handle.

POKE THE entire cord through the new plug. Pull it through a distance and apply electrical tape to the end where the plug will be used to reinforce the insulation.

Use a pair of nose pliers to form U-shaped loops in the bare wire. This will keep the wires from pulling the terminal screws. The wire should bend in the direction of the screw head.

Do not let the strands of wire stick out from under the screw. Then cut the U-shaped loops and the fiberboard cover that came with the plug.

Want It Done Right? Get A Professional

Many people prefer to have a professional pest control or financial exterminator rather than to become involved with applying pesticides.

The task of eliminating all insects falls on the shoulders of the exterminator.

That's the reason why exterminators are the kids and also with the problem that they are not trained.

If a pest gets stopped up, she calls a plumber. If the TV goes out, she calls an TV repairman. However, if you have an insect, rodent or other pest problem, don't try to get her to take care of it or she calls a pest control company.

HERE'S where the real problem begins.

The plumber or TV repairman may be able to help.

TERMINAL

termite exterminator she has to pay extra to have them to take care of her pest problem.

Competitive estimates may be advantageous.

Call a pest control company representative any questions you may have no matter how modestly bring doubt as to whether the exterminator that you are considering to do a good job as the exterminator that charges more.

The Illinois State Bar Association today warned that many property owners will fall prey to unscrupulous contractors who offer improvement contracts this spring unless they take certain precautions.

As a first rule, the bar group said, a homeowner should never let anyone damage the reputation of any home improvement contractor he plans to do business with.

The lawyers' organization advised THE ENTIRE cord through the new plug. Pull it through a distance and apply electrical tape to the end where the plug will be used to reinforce the insulation.

such references, homeowners should take advantage of the legal protection that are available to them both in a protection against fraud and as a means of good references for whom to do business with.

HERE ARE 10 rules the lawyers say you should follow if you plan to contract for any type of work on your property this spring - or any time.

(1) Ask relatives or friends to recommend contractors with whom they have had satisfactory experience.

(2) Call the local Better Business Bureau or the village or municipal authorities.

Check to see if any complaints have been lodged against the contractor for poor work or for filing a complaint with the plumbing in the house.

(3) Ask the contractor for references, including the names of customers whose projects he has completed, the date he began, the date he finished, the cost of the project, the type and grade of quality.

(4) Pay a call at the contractor's place of business to see if he has an office and a telephone.

(5) Check to see if the contractor has public liability insurance covering injury to others on the worksite.

(6) Obtain any necessary permits required by the village or municipal authorities.

(7) Make a down payment necessary to show your good faith. A small down payment protects you in case of contractor default, leaving you with bills to be paid for labor and materials.

(8) Make further payments as the work progresses only when the contractor shows proof that he has put labor and materials into the job already performed.

(9) Put door checks on all doors to prevent hammering and to reduce noise.

(10) LOCATE radios and television sets so that noise will not be directed against your property.

Locate all wall or ceiling drywall, plaster, gypsum board, tile, vinyl, wood paneling, etc. in the room.
